Raymond's Mayor At Inaugural Banquet

The above picture shows Mayor Frank R. Taylor as he addressed the group at the inaugural banquet of the southern extension of the Gas Co., in Lethbridge recently. Mayor Taylor expressed the appreciation of the people of this community, to the Gas Co. for bringing this convenience to the town. Mr. Taylor outlined briefly the negotiations with the Company and the past history and improvements in the Town of Raymond.

Mr. Taylor, in company with the mayor of Magrath, Stirling and Cardston later participated in the turning on the full force of the natural gas in the southern extension — a 58 1/2 mile transmission line and a network of distribution lines in Raymond, Wellington, Stirling, Magrath, Spring Coulee and Cardston, with some farms along the way, also being served.

The closing of the Girls Home in Waterton was attended by Zettella Taylor, Mr. Mrs. Rulon Dahl, Atha Peterson, Mr. Mrs. O. Hickson, Mr. Mrs. F. Dahl, Mr. Mrs. J. Strong, Mr. Mrs. Ellis Piepgrass, Emma Dahl, LaVerne Anderson, Mr. Mrs. Gordon Wilde. They spent a very enjoyable day at the close of which they covered the furnishings, closed up the shutters and bid a tender farewell to Te-La-La and Mary, the deer, until another summer rolls around. Many joyous memories have been stored away in the hearts of the young and not so young who have visited there this year.

Mrs. Edna Gilchrist was happy to have her son Vede home over the weekend. He is now stationed at McDonald, Manitoba.

District Governor Leaves Message With Local Rotarians

Rotary Clubs in 92 countries and geographical regions throughout the world are united in an endeavor to promote international understanding, goodwill and peace. That was the message of Vernon U. Miner of Lloydminster, Sask., Governor of District 171 of Rotary International, in addressing the Rotary Club of Raymond on Wednesday following a conference with the local Rotary officers and committee chairmen.

In addition to the activities of Rotary's 8,700 Clubs within their own communities to promote this objective, Mr. Miner explained, Rotary International has spent more than $1,750,000, in recent years through its program of student fellowships, which enable outstanding college graduates to study for one year in countries other than their own, as ambassadors of goodwill. Since 1947, when this program was established, 709 Rotary Fellowships have been awarded to students in 57 countries.

'With fellowship and service to others as its keynote, Rotary provides a common ground 414,000 business and professional executives throughout the world, regardless of differing nationalities or political or religious beliefs,' the Rotary District Governor emphasized.

'In addition to the promotion of international understanding,' Mr. Miner continued, 'special emphasis is being placed by Rotary Clubs this year on activities of their own communities which will furnish leadership in youth programs, raise standards in businesses and professions, promote traffic safety, develop good citizenship and build better rural-urban relationships.'

Visiting at the home of Mr. Mrs. Tom Rudd on Sunday were a nephew, Jack Newbold of Salt Lake, and his friend Harry Aleson of Richfield, U. The men had just returned from a trip up the Yukon River in rubber boats, they had visited Whitehorse and with the Eskimos and brought back many interesting souvenirs.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Dorothy Dahl entertained the Rotary-Annes at a lovely noon luncheon in honor of Mrs. Miner, the wife of the Governor of District 171 who was making his official visit in Raymond.

After their meeting the men joined their wives at the Dahl home for further refreshments and discussion.

CARD OF THANKS

Parley Meldrum wishes to express his appreciation to the Raymond Fire Department for its prompt action in extinguishing the blaze that threatened his barn. The early-morning fire, cause unknown, caused only slight damage.

"Tee-La-Daw" Explained

The official name of the Girls Home in Waterton has been the subject of much discussion lately and for the information of our readers here is the story behind the name.

"Tee-La-Daw" is the Swedish way of saying "Sweet Little Girl" — a name very befitting the camp, the girls who have the privilege of staying there, and possibly most of all, a fitting tribute to the ladies who have worked so tirelessly to see this wonderful dream come true.

Mr. Mrs. John Hudson of Trenton, Ont., were recent guests at the home of his parents, Mr. Mrs. Arlie Hudson.

As Raymond Was

Raymond was a husky youngster of four with a population of about 1500 when the Province of Alberta was born in 1905. Charles McCarty was the Mayor and in January of that year A. L. Wood and H. S. Allen were elected to the Town Council. During that year a small Town Hall was built on the corner of the lot where the present Hall stands; it was a room 18' x 24' with a 10' ceiling. The present building was not erected until 1930.

Main Street boasted a number of businesses and in 1909, when the Opera House held its Grand Opening the following were advertisers on the program: Wm. Paris, Tinner & Plumber; R. A. Gillies, Jeweler and Optician (Opera Glasses Available); Raymond Mercantile (Headquarters for Wagons and Buggies); O'Brien, Nalder Co., General Merchants; C. D. Fox, Real Estate and Insurance; Turner and Speidel, Meat Market; King Brothers, latest styles in lawn and silk waists; The Raymond Rustler; James Hawkins, General Blacksmithing; Luscombe Brothers, Meat and dairy products; B. S. Young, Real Estate; O. C. Wixom, Harness Shop; Ellison Milling and Elevator; and two cafes, H. A. Jones and the Old Chief.

Main Street received a new look in 1907 when Wm. Spackman was hired by the Town to construct a plank sidewalk to make it easier for milladi to do her shopping without having her skirts weighed down with Raymond mud — three years later the street was gravelled by J. D. Hall, D. M. Powelson and Wm. Clemis. It was not until 1949 that cement sidewalks were laid in the business section and since that time sidewalks in the residential areas have been going down each year.

Before a house was even built Uncle Jesse Knight provided $8,000 for a pipeline to bring water into town from a natural spring near Romerilla farm — the pioneers hauled their water from the end of the pipe which was located in front of the home now owned by Mrs. Myrtle Williams.

In 1904 another well, four feet square was dug and a gasoline engine costing $350 was ordered. Ed Smith and James Turner, who were noted for their loud whistles to let the housewives know they were near, hauled water to the homes for twenty-five cents per barrel, a convenience much appreciated. A windmill was also put up a block from David Meldrum's to further increase the water supply.

In 1911 $40,000 was borrowed to construct a water works system to put water into the homes and many of the wooden mains installed at that time are still in use, though they are

Gwen Lee Is August Bride Of David Hudson

At four o'clock on Friday afternoon, August 26, the home of Mr. Mrs. C. A. Hudson was the scene of a beautiful summer wedding when Gwendolyn Lee, daughter of Mrs. Art Rowland, and David, son of Mr. Mrs. Hudson were united in marriage by President J. O. Hickson. Art Rowland gave the bride away at the double ring ceremony with Mrs. O. T. Bingham playing the Wedding March.

The bride and groom stood beneath an arch of fresh summer flowers, in the beautifully decorated room. The glowing bride wore a three-quarter length gown which had a full taffeta skirt covered with two layers of net and sprinkled with tiny pink roses, and a jacket over a strapless bodice. She carried deep red roses over a white bible. The bridesmaid, Jolayne Rowland, wore a yellow semi-formal and carried yellow roses and gladioli, while the tiny flower girl, Gail Rowland, wore a pretty pink dress and carried pink glads. The groom's brother was best man.

Mrs. Rowland chose a grey figured dress and a darker grey jacket with pink accessories while Mrs. Hudson wore a blue dress and white accessories.

Gwen chose a soft pink suit and beige accessories for her going-away outfit.

The newly-weds are now in Provo, Utah, where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Zobell Honored On Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. Mrs. Walter Zobell were honored at their home on the occasion of their Golden Wedding Anniversary on Saturday when over 150 friends called to congratulate the happy couple and enjoy the refreshments.

Mrs. Annie Bullock, who was bridesmaid at their wedding in 1905 was among those present.

Mr. Zobell came to Canada from Provo, Utah, while Mrs. Zobell came from Hull, England. They have been blessed with eight children, the eldest of whom died in infancy. Six of their children, Albert, John, Bill, Bob, Marie and Ella live in Raymond and a daughter, Ethel, lives in Lethbridge. They are a devoted and united family, enjoying many happy times together.

Mrs. Zobell has been active as a visiting teacher in the Relief Society and as a member of the choir and Mr. Zobell has been active in community life, having been a councillor to Mayor Cope and a successful farmer in this area for many years. They are justly proud of their twenty-four grandchildren.

We join the rest of the community in extending our best wishes to the Zobells and wish them many more years of happiness together.

Main Street Officially Declared Open

Saturday, September 3rd, will be entered in the books of time as a very happy one for the people of Raymond, for that is the day that marked the official opening of their hard-surfaced Main Street, the provincial highway running through town, the installation of natural gas and the mercury vapor lights on Broadway. The day was made all the more memorable by the celebration of the Golden Jubilee of the Province of Alberta.

At one o'clock, shortly after the distinguished guests attended a luncheon sponsored by the Town, the ceremonies commenced at the intersection of Broadway and No. 52 Highway, where a platform had been erected. J. Golden Snow, chairman for the occasion, told of the founding of the Town over 53 years before, and of the dedication just two blocks south of the intersection. He paid tribute to the hardy pioneers for their courage in a new land. He also complimented the committee in charge of the day's celebrations, with Jack Kenney as chairman and Jim Bridge, Paul Fairbanks, Joe Linitski and Muneo Takeda as members.

After the High School Band and the congregation joined in "O Canada" William Jensen, former mayor, was called on to offer the dedicatory prayer. Alma Hancock, president of the Raymond and District Chamber of Commerce, gave the address of welcome and introduced those honored on the platform: Wm. Jensen; Frank Patterson of the Gas Co.; Mayor Taylor; the Hon. Gordon Taylor, Minister of Highways and Telephones; the Hon. L. C. Halmrast, Minister of Agriculture; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zobell who were celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary; Mayor E. P. Tanner and Charles Matkin, president of the Chamber of Commerce, both from Magrath; Rube Snow, representing the County of Warner; W. W. Wilde, Deputy Mayor of Raymond; Mr. Russell of National Paving; Mr. Bradley, highways engineer; and Mr. Snow.

Mrs. George Thomson and Mrs. Lyle McClain were joint hostesses at the former's home Saturday evening when twelve ladies met to honor Mrs. Dee Rolfsen at a farewell party.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolfsen and son will be making their home in Edmonton where Dee is a member of the City Police Force.

Barbara Wing Weds Kenney Coleman In Cardston Temple

Barbara, the youngest daughter of Mrs. Viola, and the late C. R. Wing, was united in marriage with Kenney Coleman, son of Mr. Mrs. Joseph Coleman of Springerville, Arizona, on Wednesday, August 31, in the Alberta Temple with Pres. Smith officiating.

At the wedding reception and dinner held at the Marquis Hotel in Lethbridge, the newlyweds received their friends against a back-drop of white gladioli and white tapers, while pastel shades of glads were used throughout the dining room.

The bride looked lovely in a lace gown designed princess style with a bouffant skirt with accents of tulle caught up in scallops at the hem-line as well as at the bodice. The lace bolero's sleeves were wrist length, and from her dainty heart-shaped cap misted matching tulle to frame her face. On her arm she carried a bouquet of stephanotis encircling an orchid.

Assisting in the receiving line were Mrs. Wing and Mrs. Coleman, and the bride's sister, Mrs. Lela Benson, while another sister, Mrs. Margaret Taylor, was in charge of the guest book. The guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brandley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Card, while Mr. and Mrs. Heber Allen, Mrs. Snow and Mary, and Mrs. McKay were in charge of seating the guests for dinner, during which time soft music was played by Mr. and Mrs. Nyal Fletcher on the violin and piano.

Heber Allen, the bride's uncle, was the jovial master of ceremonies for the program which consisted of the Toast to the Bride by Orvin Hickson with the Groom responding, vocal duet by Dawn Mendenhall and Margaret Stone with Mary Snow accompanying, two numbers especially adapted for the bride and groom were sung by Mrs. Grace Allen with Mrs. Rojanea Bingham accompanying at the piano. A college friend of the bride, Pamela Russell, played a beautiful piano selection after which Aunt Em Redd read a letter addressed 'Dear Kenney', followed by two selections by the Four Professors, Dean Rolfsen, Orvin Hickson, Lyman Jacobs and Paul Redd.

The bride donned a pale pink suit to which an orchid was pinned, and grey accessories for her going away.

San Antonio, Texas, is the destination of the young couple, when they leave on Monday, where Kenney will be stationed with the Air Force gradually being replaced. Originally the water was used from the spring but this proved inadequate as time passed and in 1946 a reservoir and purifying system were installed. Plans are again being made to increase and improve this system.

Candle light and coal oil were the order of the day (or night) back in 1905 but in 1907 the amazing electric lights were turned on in Raymond — thanks to the Ellison mill, who provided the steam power. Teddy Davis, James Linkus and Rudolph Tollestrup were early employees there. Canadian Utilities bought this plant from the mill and later sold it to Calgary Power who have continually improved their service to our community.

As in all comparisons of "then and now" a great change has taken place in our telephone system, which started out with one operator, Sue Witbeck Clemis, in a corner of McDuffey's Drug Store, to our brick building that is somewhat overcrowded since the installation last spring of the sixth board. There are sixteen operators to serve the needs of approximately 615 subscribers in Raymond and surrounding district. These operators handle considerably more calls than any other town of comparable size in the province. Dial phones are still in the talking stage.

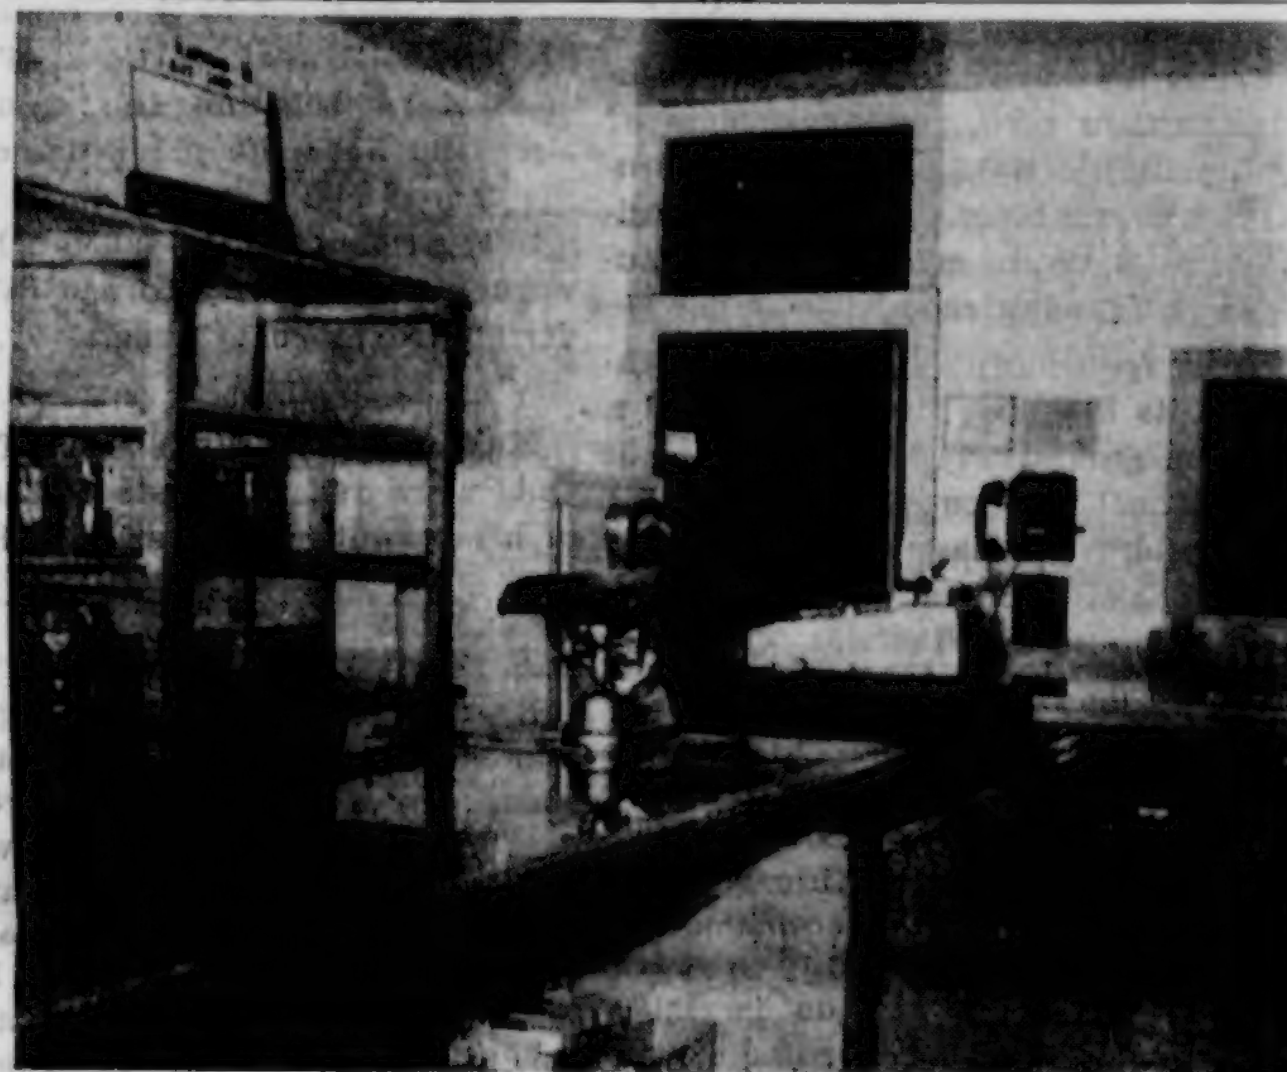

As the second half of Alberta's century begins we wonder whether our early pioneers who had such dreams for the Town of Raymond, would be at all surprised at her progress and growth, or if they would just turn back and say the 1905 equivalent of 'I told you so'.

At any rate the people of this area join with the other parts of the Province in paying tribute to those who laid the foundations upon which we may build, unitedly, for a better community, a better province and a better world.

Monday evening, August 22, Mr. Mrs. Carlyle Litchfield entertained Mrs. C. A. Hudson, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Hudson, David and his bride-to-be, Gwen Lee.

Double indemnity. An extra pair of laces for baby's little white shoes makes good sense. When laces get that 'tattle-tale gray' look that only soap and water will cure, you've a spare pair all ready to substitute. Also good insurance in case one lace breaks.

Mr. Mrs. Heber Allen have had as their guests Mrs. Allen's sister, Mrs. J. Frank Hayes of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Clifford Snow, Mr. Allen's sister, and her daughter Mary of Salt Lake. These guests and Mrs. Miralda McKay were here to attend the wedding of Barbara Wing on August 30. While here the visitors were taken by the Allens on a delightful trip to Banff.

This interior view of the new home of the Raymond Bake Shop shows the attractive arrangement of show-cases and shelves that are loaded each day with freshly baked pastries, cakes and delicious Crisp Crust bread. Roy extends a cordial invitation to one and all to drop in and see him and inspect his new premises.

YOU MUST BLOSSOM

"Where God has planted you, you must blossom. It is not everything to live resigned where God has placed you. You must BLOSSOM - that is, live there happily and make others happy.

"To blossom means for you to show that you are happy for all the good God has done for you, for the services that are rendered you, and the devotedness you are called upon to give others.

"To blossom is to be at the disposal round you that you are happy; to tell them this by a simple manner and a happy face. Indeed, I am well off to be here, and grateful to God for all His kindness.

"To blossom also be at the disposal of everybody; willing to be disturbed to submit willingly in everything that would be agreeable to others, and never show weariness or annoyance.

"What strength, what peace, what self-abnegation and holiness, too, are contained in these words: 'Where God has planted you, you must blossom.'

OUR NOBLE PIONEERS

You pioneers, so brave and true
Our grateful thanks we extend to you
For the heritage which now is ours
Gleaned through long and tiring hours.

For every worthwhile noble deed,
There is sown a compensating seed,
It's fruits forever will gladden the heart,
Of those who shall of themselves impart.

Through all your struggles by day and night,
You labored hard with all your might,
And from these plains of virgin soil
You reaped rich harvests through your toil.

Those crops were not measured in grain alone,
Your prosperity proves, a richer seed was sown.
They shall ever uphold your name,
Your faith, your courage, with pride acclaim.

God chose you to conquer this uncharted land,
To establish a race who will acknowledge His Hand;
So with God's help we promise you
To honor this trust, to Him prove true.

A people's greatness is truly measured,
By noble acts, by virtues treasured;
Can we through the ensuing years,
Uphold the traditions of our pioneers?

How well and true they played their part,
Can we hope to be their counterpart?
Can we leave a heritage rare,
That our descendants too may share?

Time alone will its answer give,
Time doth record how well we live,
Time shall bequeath it's own reward,
Time; Father Time, doth well record.

Alberta's Golden Jubilee.

LABOR DAY

We should be happy in this land
With everything one could command,
From shorter hours, bigger pay,
To every kind of holiday.
And still, to honor workingmen,
That they might rest from farm and pen,
This one day brings surcease from toil.

Called Labor Day — the name implies
No holiday 'neath sunny skies
With fishing tackle, rod, and gun,
Or family picnics in the sun,
With motor trips and mugs of beer,
And everything that man thinks can cheer
The heart and mind — that tired men
Refreshed, may go their way again.

But it is all these things, and more,
Besides a few we'd fain ignore;
In human life, and stress of soul,
Our holidays take staggering toll
Yet this one proves a yearly foil
For tired men from daily toil.
And if this day is one day lost
Who would stop to count the cost!

JUBILEE CELEBRATIONS

Near the foothills of the Rockies,
Nestled on the level prairies,
Lies the little town of Raymond.
Raymond, happy, prosperous Raymond,
(Four years older than the Province)
Seeing, in its jubilation,
Fifty years of toil and striving —
All the cumulative labors
Of its people reach fulfillment.

Then they met in celebration
To commemorate their efforts;
And a hush fell o'er the gathering
As their leaders rose to speak.
Forth then stepped our Leonard Halmrast,
Mighty champion of the people,
With the Honorable Gordon Taylor,
Minister of phones and highways;
And they spoke in glowing phrases,
Spiced with saucy wit and humor,
Praised our aims and our ambitions,
Propheesied of future progress —
Then they cut official ribbons —
Both our new roads blessed to traffic.

Turned they then to merrymaking,
Turned to youthful fun and frolic,
And the city fathers, wisely,
In the spirit of their boyhood,
Planned this day for young Albertans,
Planned it for the youth of Raymond.
Watched them in their young ambition
Chase a pig with shouts of laughter,
Chase a greasy pig and tumble,
Laughing, as it fled before them.
Then, in dashing western fashion
Held a second gay stampede,
For the younger set of cowboys —
Town and ranch and farm competing
For the honors of the day.
And to crown this year of Jubilation,
Crowned a youthful queen, and pretty,
In her western costume riding,
Daughter of the farms and ranches,
Crowned our Golden Jubilee Queen.

Then up rose the town of Raymond,
As a single spirit rising,
In their joy and jubilation,
And a mighty shout went upward
To the skies so blue above them,
And they danced upon the highway,
Sang and danced upon the pavement;
And their hearts were light as feathers —
As the feathers of the seagull
As it wheeled and soared above them,
Wondering at their strange gyrations.

Sang and danced for each improvement,
For the prosperous town of Raymond —
Sang for the bright new lights and highways
For the brand new sewer system,
For the natural gas and pavement,
For the coming dial phones.
Sang and danced, though taxes soaring,
Price of stoves and installations,
Threatened all their cash and savings —
Threatens years of credit, too.

Sang and danced in young abandon,
While the stars came out above them,
Vying with the lights of Raymond,
Flooding all the town as noon-day.
Thus the day wore on, and ended;
But the echo of its passing
Long will live in retrospection,
Long will live in memory's pages,
As a great historic day.

A BOY'S PRAYER

A little lad was bowed beside
His cot in nightly prayer;
His mother listened closely
As for bed she'd fain prepare.
'Can't hear you, sonny darling,'
She called, as mothers do;
A pause and then he answered:
'I'm not talking, Mom, to you.'

Birthday greetings to an old friend

Imperial Oil is especially happy to salute Alberta on its Golden Jubilee because of our long and close association with its people. Within two years of the founding of Imperial in 1880, the Company was bringing kerosene and axle grease to the settlers on the prairies, and an office was established in Alberta before the province was officially born. Imperial has always been a pioneer in providing needed products.

Our confidence that Alberta would eventually be a major producer of oil was demonstrated by the large investment leading to the discovery of Imperial Leduc No. 1, the well that sparked Alberta's eight years' growth into one of the world's important oil areas. To utilize the province's crude oil, Imperial built Calgary's first major refinery in 1920 and the first refinery at Edmonton in 1948, and it is now building western Canada's first lubricating oil plant at Edmonton.

Imperial, which itself is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year, is confident that the next 50 years hold even greater promise for the province than the last half century. We look forward to a continuing part in the progress of a great province.

Ursenbach add Donny Livingston of Lethbridge. There were about 35 present to enjoy the program, games and of course, the mouth-watering food.

Our whole social life is in essence but a long, slow striving for the victory of justice over force.

On Tuesday, August 30, Mrs. Fannie Litchfield and Eugene Dahl took their Sunday School class to Park Lake for a picnic. The boys and girls taking part in the swimming, weiner roasting, and giant checker playing were Geraldine Ackroyd and her friend Helen Bourne of Magrath, Rachel Tychesen, Donna Meldrum, David Holmes, Robt. Still, Bruce Holt, Denny Smith and Jimmy Fisher.

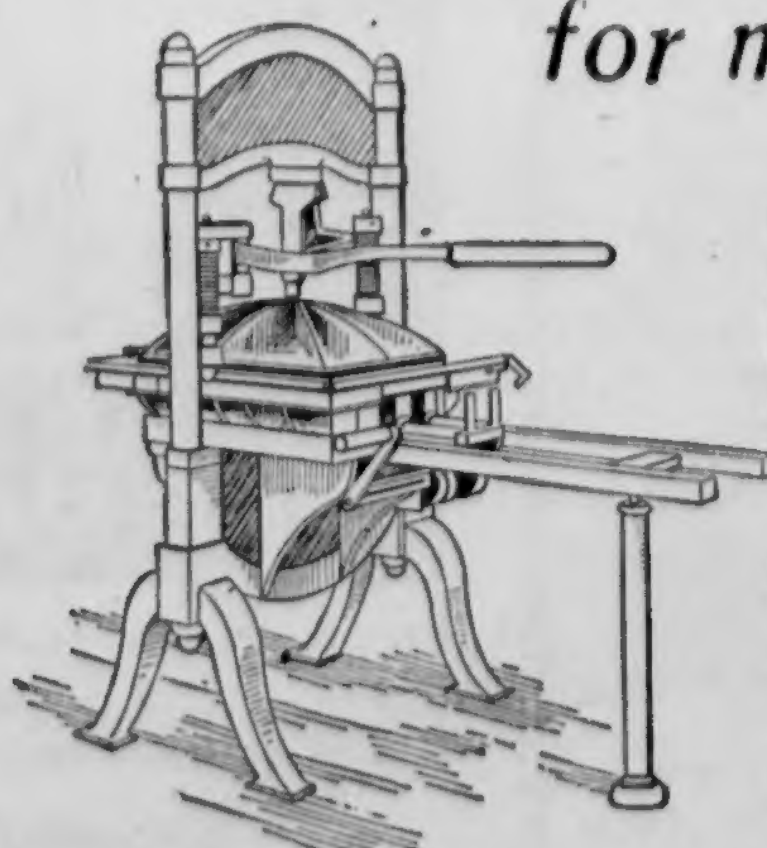

The above photo shows the gathering at the El Rancho Banquet Room recently when the Canadian Western Natural Gas Company was host to representatives of Raymond, Magrath, Stirling and Cardston at the official inauguration of the gas service to those towns. Taylor of Raymond; Mayor William Hogenson of Stirling; and Harold G. Long, publisher of the Lethbridge Herald.

Mr. Patterson was chairman of the meeting, with Mr. McPherson, the Mayors and Mr. Long speaking to the group.

The difference between perseverance and obstinacy is, that one often comes from a strong will, and the other from a strong won't.

These are the men that built Alberta...

...supplied the Province's need for metal, food, paper, homes and factories. For the growth of this great Province their skills are needed along with the need of their families. Many of them have had to overcome hardship, pioneer new methods, risk their savings in fulfilling their dream and of the future.

Some of them, dependent on wages and salaries, borrowed from Household Finance. Some from companies like it. As well, HFC advises many customers not to borrow and provides literature on budgeting and free advice on how to save.

When money is really needed there must be a source and ours is a most essential service. Companies like Household Finance in the consumer finance field help men like these to be independent, help them maintain their credit and help them build for Canada tomorrow.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation, by the Fire Commissioner, of a Merit Award, for the outstanding work done by the local Fire Department, especially during Fire Prevention Week.

Children when playing out of doors, accumulate dirt and germs on their hands. Before they are allowed to eat, whether their regular meals or outside snack, they should wash their hands. Making a regular practice of washing hands before eating can become a good habit and will help to protect them against transferring germs and dirt to their mouths with their food.

CALGARY POWER LTD.

HELPING TO BUILD A BETTER ALBERTA

Calgary Power Ltd. Contributes To Alberta's Progress

To Mr. Farmer and his son, electric service means a handy workshop with power tools like the one in the picture above.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION IN ALBERTA

One of Alberta's most striking success stories is that of Rural Electrification. Since the end of the war when very few farms in the province had central station electric power, the expansion of the Rural Electrification program has been tremendous. At December 31, 1954, there were 30,504 farms electrified in Alberta. Of this total 22,561 are served by Calgary Power Ltd. The year 1954 was one of achievement with 6,323 farms being connected, in spite of the wet spring, summer and early fall, which delayed construction of rural lines.

A goal of 5,000 electrified farms has been set for 1955. This year should see the expansion of farm electrification into many corners of the Province which hitherto have been too remote from the lines of the interconnecting systems to expect electrification.

Eventually it is hoped that over 66,000 of the province's 84,315 farms will receive electrical service.

At the end of 1954 a total of 335 Rural Electrification Associations had been organized. These Associations are organized groups of farmers who live in the same area and who all want to have electric service on their farms. They secure an estimate of the cost of having lines constructed in their area from the power company. This estimate is based on cost. The power company makes no profit on the erection of rural lines. Then they divide the cost evenly among themselves. If any farmer needs financial assistance he can borrow money from the provincial government. To keep the cost down many farmers assist the power companies in the actual construction.

As soon as the lines are built the value of the farm on the real estate market increases by more than the cost of construction. This co-operative enterprise could never have been successful without the complete co-operation of the farmers, the power companies, the Alberta Power Commission and the financial assistance from the Government.

Today electricity is becoming a necessity to the farmer. He uses it, operates water pumps, machine shops, welding equipment, for lighting his barns, for incubating chickens and pigs, for starting the heaters in his buildings and other uses.

To Mrs. Farmer electricity has brought all the advantages of city life. No longer must she use flat irons, the wood stove or the water pump. She now has an electrically controlled kitchen in which she can prepare better food, more quickly in pleasant surroundings.

The rates charged for the electricity the farmers use are just enough to cover the cost of supplying the power. The power companies make no profit on the sale of electricity to the farmer. These rates are carefully supervised by the Alberta Power Commission.

The Rural Electrification Short Courses which have been put on under the supervision of the Department of Agriculture appear to be performing a very worthwhile function. During the winter of 1953-54 some fourteen of these courses were held in the Province. These courses are designed to provide the farmer with an understanding of how Rural Electrification works.

Mr. Mrs. Lee Fairbanks left last week-end for Edmonton where they will be making their home. Lee is teaching Phys. E., Math and Science at West Glen High School. Mrs. Drayton is caring for their daughter Linda until they get settled.

To Mrs. Elizabeth King - And Other Pioneers

A few highlights in the life of Elizabeth King, written by Sally Hippard at the request of the local Writer's Club and printed with her permission.

People of Raymond, at this time of Golden Jubilee, will you go back with me and travel, for one day only, with some of Raymond's early pioneers: and listen in, with me, as they reminisce of the early days and the people of our our town.

It is late in May, in the year 1947, and Mr. Mrs. L. D. King are visiting in Salt Lake City, in Provo, and in their childhood home of Almo, Idaho.

And now, at eight o'clock in the morning we hear a knock at the door. It is Mr. Mrs. Holbrook of Salt Lake City, former pioneers of Raymond. They have called for Elizabeth and Louis King to take them by car to the home of J. W. Knight in Provo.

As we approach we see it is a beautiful modern home, built at the mouth of Provo canyon, overlooking the valley.

As these old friends meet in this new and beautiful setting we see that these people need no introduction to each other.

But some of you may not be so fortunate, so while they exchange excited greetings, let me introduce them to you; that is, if you can hear me over the din, for everyone seems to be talking at once in the joy of meeting.

That is J. W. (Will) Knight, just shaking hands with Elizabeth. He was Raymond's first bishop, and the brother of Ray Knight, who gave Raymond the Stampede. Beside him is his wife, Jennie B. Knight, the first president of the Stake YLMIA. This is L. H. Holbrook, our first Sunday School superintendent, and his wife, Alsina, the first ward president of the YLMIA, and this is Wash Brimhall, brother of Jennie and Alsina, and he also played an important part in the establishment of the town of Raymond.

And now that the greetings are over we see the visitors standing before the beautiful plate glass window, gazing in admiration at the green fertile valley below and the great Salt Lake shimmering in the distance.

"This is like a wonderful painting, only more beautiful, as it is alive and real", said Elizabeth.

"Yes, it is lovely, isn't it?", Mr Knight replied. "You know, one time when Ray's wife was here she asked why this window did not face the mountains to the east, and I told her that I wanted it built this way so I could look through this window and see the mountains of Eureka, where my father was impressed to dig into the mines for riches which later came into his possession; and where my father tried so hard to impress his children that the money we should get should be used wisely and well — for the purpose of doing good and for the building up of the church."

Elizabeth nodded thoughtfully, "Yes, we still feel the influence for good of 'Uncle' Jesse Knight who made Raymond possible back in 1901."

"Nearly half a century — but it really doesn't seem that long does it?" A fire had been kindled in the fireplace, and on glancing through the living room, they could see the reflection of the cozy fire in the full-length mirror, which added warmth and comfort to the already friendly atmosphere. And the little group settled down with photographs and memories of those early days.

After a while Elizabeth said, "You know, I've been thinking of the story of the woman who went to testimony meeting, and when she went home she said to her husband 'Oh, Bill, we had such a wonderful meeting today.' 'Oh, is that so? Who spoke?' 'I did' she said."

"That's a true principle isn't it? Maybe that's why we love Raymond so much, we helped build it, and had a voice in all its affairs. We've loved the people too. You can't help loving the people you work with day by day. And they are such wonderful people, too — chosen of the Lord, in very truth."

"We planned their recreation, taught them to dance and to sing, when they were young, and taught their children after them. We spent 37 years of the Mutual and loved every minute of it."

"You and your husband have done a wonderful work there," said Jennie. "You taught them all the arts—drama, dancing, music, and the Gospel too."

"Yes, that's why we went to Canada in the first place. Louis and I were engaged to be married when he got the call to go on an MIA mission to Canada. It seemed such a long way off and I just couldn't let him go with out me. So we decided to get married and go together."

"But were you not afraid — leaving your good homes, your family and friends, to go to a new, raw country, so far away?"

"No, not really, we had each other and we knew we were doing the right thing. The call had come from the Lord so nothing could go very wrong for us as long as we did our part. And we had so much fun. Even our worst hardships had their funny side. And we had such wonderful experiences—happy, inspirational and developing experiences. Like the time I sang in the 117 voice MIA choir from the Taylor Stake. We sang in the Assembly Hall and the great Tabernacle at the MIA conference, under the direction of Brother Will Stone.

"And the time I was called upon to speak at the MIA conference in Salt Lake in 1928. The request for me to speak at the meeting was on its way to Canada and so passed me on the way. I didn't know I was to speak until a few minutes before the meeting started. I was never so frightened in my life, and almost wished the floor would open up and I could sink out of sight. With all my heart I told the Lord that I was in His hands and He would have to tell me what to say. Many people congratulated me on my talk that morning and it was a testimony to me that the Lord really does hear and answer prayers."

Wash spoke from across the room, "I have always been amazed at the amount of work you have done in the church, Elizabeth, and especially the plays you wrote and directed. You played in them too, didn't you? Just how many plays did you write?"

"Well, I wrote, directed and played in 18 plays and pageants from 1923 until 1947. I really did enjoy that work. We had so much fun, and so many happy memories of those times."

Will Knight held up a picture of a lonely tree on a wind-swept prairie. "This is about the way Raymond looked when my father first saw it. He was riding on a train in the vicinity of where Raymond now stands in company with C. A. Magrath. He looked over the grass-covered prairie, a land over which the buffalo once roamed, and where the old Fort Benton Trail ran like a ribbon from Montana to Lethbridge. Then he turned to Mr. Magrath and said quietly, 'I can visualize a fine settlement there.'"

"But he was very surprised when he was called to help in the colonization of southern Alberta. Once he decided to accept the call he put all his energy and the needed money into the building of Raymond. And Ray and I helped him." He turned to Elizabeth, "What were your first impressions of the country in 1901?" Elizabeth smiled. "We spent our first night in Canada in the home of Faye and Alsina Holbrook. The next morning we followed the wagon tracks over the prairie, in a light buggy, on our way to the home of Margaret and Owen King. We were overwhelmed by the vastness of the grass-covered country as far as the eye could see. No houses, no fences, no trees, no sign-posts, no telephone poles, no land-marks of any kind — just the green prairies everywhere."

"It was a beautiful sight, and the stillness and vastness of that scene will live in our memories forever. Living, as we had, in the valleys of the mountains of Utah and Idaho, the sudden change to boundless green beauty was indescribable."

"That was only the beginning of our travels over the prairies, for President Card called me as a missionary to travel with my husband and Elder Burton, through all the towns from Mountain View in the north-west to Stirling in the eastern part of the Alberta Stake."

"The Canadian wind was as true to type then as it is now. I remember one time we held a meeting in the little log church in Mountain View. The wind was blowing with such terrible velocity that the walls and ceiling of the building swayed and creaked as if they would fall apart. The people jumped to their feet. Louis and I were sitting on the stand with Elder Burton. Louis jumped to his feet and was half-way down the aisle when someone shouted out, 'Elder King, you have forgotten your bride.'"

"That broke the tension and the meeting went on to its conclusion. We have teased Louis about it ever since." The little group laughed companionably and Faye Holbrook turned to Louis and said, "You were not in Raymond very long before you started the Co-operative Mercantile business, were you?"

"No," Louis said, "We started that in 1902, with the help and council of Edward J. Wood. T. O. King came to Raymond from the Cardston district in 1902 and engaged in the Mercantile business with me until 1909 when he returned to farming."

"That was quite a store," Faye said, "It was reported to be one of the most enterprising firms in Raymond. And the fittings and selection of dry goods was said to compare with anything this in the province. It was 60 by 52 feet, our help, we take a lingering farewell as I remember, and carried full lines of all classes of general merchandise and dry goods."

"It grew faster than we expected," Louis said, "We started with the manager and clerk, and in three years there were eight employees."

Will stretched himself contentedly, "Yes, the King brothers had their fingers in a lot of enterprises. Let me see if I can name them —"

1. T. O. King was a member of the first Town Council.

2. He ranched in the Cardston district and organized the first school district south of Macleod and Lethbridge.

3. He served as school trustee from 1908 to 1937.

4. He was vice-president of the Alberta Association from 1909 until 1923 and president from 1923 until 1937.

5. He was one of Raymond's first town councilmen and was appointed acting mayor in the absence of Mayor McCarty.

6. He was a friend to everyone and everyone was his friend. He was known for his kindness and service to the sick and unfortunate. His wife, Margaret H., was always busy sewing, knitting, patching and carrying food, clothes and medicine to the needy, in all kinds of weather. Right?"

"Right," Elizabeth said, "I think no one surpassed her in the care of the sick and the needy."

Wash turned to Will with a smile, "Since your memory is so good, see if you can list the enterprises of Lou here, as neatly."

Will grinned, "I think I can do that, too," he said, and once again counted on his fingers —

1. He was a member of the town council.

2. He was a member of the Board of Trade in 1907, and here I quote from the Raymond Rustler:— Respected and esteemed by his fellows, sober, intelligent and upright, optimistic for sunny southern Alberta, and a booster for Raymond, President L. D. King stands prominently for a bigger and better and more progressive Raymond. End of Quote.

3. He started the Raymond Mercantile with his brother

4. When the Opera House was built in 1909, Mr. King was elected vice-president, and three years later was made its manager. At that time there was a debt of $2700 hanging over the company, Louis soon had the company out of debt and established a nice credit balance.

But he was even more successful in the management of the dances and entertainments and in the selection of high class performances for the house. His influence for the moral uplift of our boys and girls will be an everlasting benefit to them, and an eternal monument to his faithful and efficient service.

5. He . . . "Oh, come now," Faye interrupted, "where are you getting all that information? I'm sure it is not all in your head."

Will laughed and help up a number of newspaper clippings that had been stored with the pictures of Raymond.

"In case your interested, there is a cute one here about Louis, in the Cardston News, when one of his sons was born. But I'll come to that in a minute." The fingers came up again.

5. He was elected president of the Raymond Athletic Assn. in 1902.

6. He was appointed Post Master in 1902 and served in that capacity for 36 years.

7. He owned and operated King Motors garage and Texaco service station, and sold his first Ford car in 1918.

Now for that story about his son, and I quote:— "We understand that a stranger walked into King Brothers store at Raymond last Wednesday and asked, 'What is the price of prunes?'

'12 cents', replied the genial Louis. 'What is sugar worth?' the customer asked.

'12 cents'.

'And butter?'

'12 cents'.

'And fruit?'

'12 cents'.

'Well, what is this, a 12 cent store?'

'Oh', explained Louis, 'I was meditating upon that 12 pound boy that arrived at my house yesterday.'

The inquirer laughed and the band played 'All Hail the King.'

The little group of friends were still laughing when Mrs. Knight returned to the room to announce that lunch was ready. We watch them as they file into the dining room; and since this is one place they do not need to our friends and travel back to 1955.

MAIN STREET

Mr. Russell and Mr. Patterson spoke briefly on behalf of their companies and Mayor Taylor told the crowd that the work of many years had been culminated in the good roads, gas and other improvements in the Town. He said that a town should be for the people and that it should be made as modern and comfortable as possible.

The Hon. Gordon Taylor said that there was enough right-of-way in the province to encircle the equator six times and that Alberta was doing its best to provide good roads for everyone. He urged farmers along the new highway to co-operate and keep water out of the borrow-pits, for it was water that did the damage to roads. He expressed the thanks of the government to all who had co-operated in the road construction, and concluded by offering congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Zobel and taking a bachelor's privilege and soundly kissed Mrs. Zobel — twice.

Mr. Halmrast extended greetings on behalf of the premier and the government and outlined the history of agriculture in the province, saying that the first land to be cultivated was in the Athabasca country in 1779. He also congratulated the Zobels and paid tribute to the first settlers in his area, calling them men and women of courage. He concluded by saying that great communities are made by great by the people who live in them and that it was the challenge of the youth of today to carry on in the generations to come.

Mr. Taylor and Mr. Bradley then cut the ribbon to officially open No. 52 Highway and Mayor Taylor and William Wilde cut the ribbon to open Main Street.

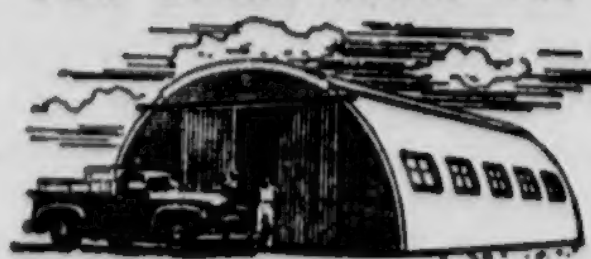

The scrolls were then presented to about one hundred people with Mayor Taylor and Mr. Halmrast offering congratulations to each person who had lived in Alberta since 1905.

The celebrations of the day continued with a very well-run Amateur Rodeo and in the evening with two big street dances.

On Sunday evening special Jubilee services were held at the Second Ward Chapel with Lyman Jacobs and Frank Steele, a long-ago editor of the local newspaper, speaking.

An enterprise, when fairly once begun, should not be left till all that ought is won.

Mr. Mrs. Floyd Winters and Marsha have returned from a delightful trip to Trail and Creston where they picked cherries and plums — a new and fun-filled experience. While the ladies visited the men fished — and what a fisherman's paradise — 18 fish in an hour.
